APPLIED BUSINESS QUESTION

The Celtic Greenway

In 2015, The Celtic Greenway, a 30 km traffic-free cycling and walking trail built along a disused railway line was officially opened. The Greenway project was the work of a group of residents from villages and towns who wanted to develop it as a community amenity. The Greenway connects towns, villages and places of natural interest. A significant amount of funding was provided by local government. The construction of the route was carried out by a local building company over 3 years.

The provision of this safe and attractive walking and cycling route has encouraged a huge uptake of cycling, walking and jogging among local people. Cycling is increasingly being recognised as a key mode in reducing the environmental impact of transport and in promoting healthier and more balanced ways of life. The Greenway has become a great location for scouts to earn merit badges and complete volunteer projects. It has also attracted overseas visitors to the area which has led to an increase in demand for cafés and accommodation in local hotels and B&Bs along the route.

Luke Breen, a business man in the community and a keen cyclist, observed that overseas tourists using the Greenway were restricted to walking the route, as they could not rent bicycles locally. He investigated online and found that the sale of bicycles was increasing in several European countries including Ireland, indicating an increased interest in cycling and cycling holidays. He read research published by the Irish Bicycle Business Association on the different types of bicycles suitable for different terrains before purchasing bicycles to rent. Luke surveyed users of the Greenway over two days to gather information on their levels of satisfaction with the Greenway. He worked on developing a Unique Selling Point (USP) for his idea. Based on what users told him he designed a Greenway guide highlighting places of historical interest along the route. He trialed a bike rental service in a nearby city using a 'pop-up' shop on a temporary basis. He made improvements to the service based on customers' suggestions. He then launched Greenway Bikes, a bicycle rental service, in summer 2016.

Luke recognised the opportunity of promoting his bike rental service in overseas markets. He had a small budget for a global marketing campaign. His promotional campaign involved using digital platforms when advertising internationally, due to the cost of traditional advertising media such as television, radio, newspaper etc. He was aware that his brand name needed to be adapted to highlight its USP. He rebranded the business on his social networking sites as Celtic Heritage Bike Trails, with its focus on outdoor adventure tourism. Different packages are sold through the website with special offers available for early bookings. The website has the capacity to take payments in several currencies. It can be accessed in a number of different languages. One of the first bookings Luke took was for a tour group from China who rented 20 bicycles. He included a guided tour of local historical sites in their package. Luke is keen to exploit more opportunities for business expansion locally and internationally.
