Chapter 18

Business Expansion

(Strategies - Organic and Inorganic Growth; Reasons - Offensive, Defensive, Psychological; Finance for Expansion; Short and Long Term Implications)

2012 Q7 (C)

Read the information supplied below and answer the question which follows.

SuperToys Ltd, a large retail chain with 45 shops throughout Ireland, had sales of €100 million in 2011. It has just commissioned a firm to design and manufacture a new range of soft toys for babies. These will be available for sale in its shops from Summer 2013. SuperToys Ltd plans to open its first shop in the UK in 2014.

Discuss the possible reasons for business expansion and growth at SuperToys Ltd. (20 marks)

MS: 2 @ 7 marks (3+3+1) 1 @ 6 marks (3+2+1)

- 1. The owner of SuperToys Ltd might have an inbuilt desire to grow an empire with SuperToys Ltd and realize their entrepreneurial ambition. Despite large sales, some entrepreneurs want to be the biggest and best business in their industry.
- 2. SuperToys may want to diversify by spreading the risk by involving a business in other markets, either new product ranges or new territories, decreases the risk of failure should one of their main markets fall in demand.
- E.g. SuperToys will have UK sales to help profits if there is a fall in demand in Ireland for their products.
- 3. A business may purchase a business that supplies them to protect an essential stock of supplies (raw materials...).
 This is called reverse integration of the chain of supply.

 SuperToys Ltd could do this to protect their supply chain, guaranteeing a supply of stock for resale.
- 4. Some firms will look to expand in order to remove a threat in their market e.g. takeover a smaller competitors so they won't grow and take some of your sales, eliminating a competitor.

 SuperToys Ltd could merge with or take over a competitor to remove a threat to its market share.

Other: Economics of Scale; acquire new products/technologies;

2011 Q6 (A)

Read the information supplied and answer the questions which follow. Kilronan Ltd produces a range of chilled food products. Made from natural ingredients, the firm's award winning products have become household names. It is now one of the leading brands in Ireland and supplies all the major supermarket chains. Kilronan Ltd is considering either a 'merger' or a 'takeover' as a method of expansion within the Irish market. It is also considering how it will finance growth.

- (i) Illustrate the difference between a merger and a takeover as methods of business expansion.
- (ii) Discuss the benefits and risks of a merger as a method of expansion for Kilronan Ltd. (25 marks)

MS: (i) 2@ 5 marks (2+2+1) (ii) 3 @ 5 marks (2+2+1)

(i) A merger is a voluntary amalgamation of two or more individual firms for their mutual benefit. A single new legal entity is formed once it is approved by shareholders and neither has control over the other. e.g. Avonmore Plc and Waterford Plc merged to form Glanbia.

A takeover can be hostile (when the company being acquired doesn't want to be) or friendly. It occurs when one business owns/buys 51% of the shares in another company. The acquiring company absorbs the other company, which loses its identity after the acquisition and becomes part of the acquiring company.

e.g. Eircom took over Meteor mobile phone company for €420 million.

(ii)

- 1. A merger allows a business to grow its market share much quicker than growing organically. E.g. Kilronan could grow sales much faster by merging rather than trying to grow just using advertising campaigns.
- 2. Merging with a competitor means the business will now have access to their product range and brands, boosting customer loyalty and making it easier to launch new products in to the market.

If Kilronan merged, they would add new brands and products to their range, instead of having to spend money and time in their R&D to create new products.

Other: Diversification; Economies of Scale; New tech/markets

3. When businesses come together there could be a clash of cultures as employees might not be used to norms in their old entity. Different work practices and management styles and systems used, can lead to a lack of cohesion, which could damage the success of the merger.

If Kilronan merged with another business, it might not go well and sales could fall as staff/management don't gel well or want different objectives.

Other: Industrial Relations problems (redundancies); Duplication of resources/costs

2018 Q3 - Short

Circle the correct option in the case of each of the following statements.

- (i) An acquisition (takeover), is a form of inorganic growth/organic growth.
- (ii) In a merger, businesses trade under their own names/ a new legal entity is created.
- (iii) In a strategic alliance, businesses share expertise, and the agreement is permanent/ temporary.
- (iv) Expansion can be financed by debt capital which includes / does not include ordinary share capital.
- (v) Economies of scale are defined as unit (average) cost / total costs decreasing as output increases.

Supermac's is an Irish fast food franchise which was set up in Ballinasloe 40 years ago by Pat McDonagh. In May 2017 Supermac's took home the award for "Franchise of the Year" at the Irish Franchise Awards.

Outline the advantages and disadvantages for a business in the fast food sector of choosing franchising as a method of business expansion. (20 marks)

MS: 2@7(4+3) 1@6(3+3) At least one of each required.

Advantages

It is a form of expansion which requires, low capital investment by the franchisor as the capital used to expand the business comes from franchisees. Very suitable/popular in the current economic climate as a form of expansion.

Franchising permits a more rapid expansion. By using the franchisees' capital, the franchisor is able to establish a large number of outlets in a short period of time. Rapid expansion can be achieved without incurring the overheads and costs associated with opening companyowned restaurants.

An owner will be more attentive than a manager. This is the central point which makes franchising so attractive. The franchisor can be assured that the person operating its restaurant will be "attending to business" as much as they would. By franchising the business, the franchisor places the expansion of his/her business in the hands of people who are motivated to make it work and are therefore more likely to succeed.

Economies of scale exist. There is strength in numbers. The successful franchisor can command deals with various suppliers. Can control supplies to various franchisees. The cost savings can increase the franchisor's profits.

Because there is a smaller capital investment required the franchisor's profits are generated on a much lower capital investment even though the revenue from franchised restaurants may be less than that received from company-owned restaurants.

A franchise system requires less management than a company owned chain of restaurants. Hiring, motivating and retaining competent staffing are all functions handled by the franchisee, not the franchisor.

There is low risk to the franchiser as should the franchisee not adhere to the conditions of the contract it could be cancelled.

Disadvantages

Control is lost over the day-to-day management of the franchise businesses.

The reputation of the whole business could be affected by the actions of one franchisee /poor quality standards/staff problems

A training programme for franchisees will be required. This will be expensive and time consuming.

Franchisees will have to be monitored on a regular basis.

2010 Q6 (A)

Read the information supplied below and answer the questions which follow.

Marie Nolan is the owner of 'Marie's Pizzas' a successful pizza restaurant with a home- delivery service. Demand for take-aways has increased, as more people are eating at home due to the economic downturn. Marie is planning on expanding her business through franchising and her accountant recommends that a business plan should be prepared before going ahead.

Evaluate franchising (benefits and risks) as a method of expansion for the Pizza business. (20 marks)

MS: 3 @ 5 marks (2+3) min 1 benefit/1 risk; Evaluation 5m (2+3)

Benefit: Low Investment Required

It is a form of expansion that doesn't require as much capital investment as e.g. a merger or takeover. Lots of capital used to expand the business comes from franchisees, not the franchisor.

This is why it's so popular with smaller start ups like Pizza businesses and why it would suit Marie.

Benefit: Owner rather than Manager

An owner will be more attentive than a manager. Rather than employing someone, the franchisee wants to succeed as they own it, so they should be more motivated to make higher profits as they've invested their own savings.

By franchising out Marie's Pizzas, Marie places the expansion of her business in the hands of people who are motivated to make it work.

Risk: Damage to Reputation

The reputation of the whole business could be affected by the actions of one franchisee /poor quality standards/staff problems. Maintaining a brand's integrity through the process may be difficult.

If Marie allowed a franchisee to set up but they delivered cold pizza or ran the franchise poorly, her own stores would also be negatively affected by this.

Evaluation: In my opinion, Marie franchising her idea is a must. It's the quickest and cheapest way to expand in this type of market (its already so popular e.g. Dominos, Four Star, Apache) and if she sets appropriate rules, then if a franchisee performed below expected standards, she could cancel the arrangement and continue to grow unaffected.

2009 Q5 (A)

- (i) Explain the term 'business alliance'.
- (ii) Illustrate the advantages of an alliance as a form of business expansion. (20 marks)

MS: 5m (2+3) 3 @ 5m (2+3)

(i) A business alliance is an agreement between two or more businesses to pool resources and/or expertise to work together over a specified period of time or to complete a specified project, while all parties maintain their separate legal identities.

They can benefit by using each-others skills, research, networks, resources...

(ii) Less Risk

As the businesses remain separate legal entities, in the case of the Alliance not being a success, it is easier to terminate the deal rather than having merged/taken over a business, which would have much higher financial and time costs to wind down an unsuccessful expansion.

E.g. Post Bank wasn't successful, so it was easier for Fortis and An Post to end their Alliance than if they had have merged initially.

Access to Markets/Networks

Businesses can gain new customers to their brand from different markets that may previously have never considered purchasing their brand.

E.g. From the Smart Car, Swatch and Mercedes combined, and some of Swatch's customers may now use a Mercedes product for the first time, and then continue to purchase them in the future.

Synergy

Two organisations might provide something that complements each others resources/products, resulting in them both benefiting.

E.g. An Post and Fortis. An Post provided physical spaces for Fortis to access the Irish current account market, and An Post gained from increased footfall and business in to their post offices.

2013 Q6 (B)

'For a business to survive it needs to grow and expand.' Evaluate two methods of business expansion. (20 marks) MS: $2 \times (2+3+3+2)$ – State 2m Explain 6m (3+3), Evaluate 2m

Strategic Alliance

A business alliance is an agreement between two or more businesses to pool resources and/or expertise to work together over a specified period of time or to complete a specified project, while all parties maintain their separate legal identities.

They can benefit by sharing skills, research, networks, resources...

Evaluation: This can be great for PR if you complete a project with a cool or trendy business – Tayto and Butlers chocolate got lots of exposure for the crisp flavoured chocolate bar they worked on together.

Merger

A voluntary amalgamation of two or more individual firms for their mutual benefit.

A single new legal entity is formed once it is approved by shareholders and neither has control over the other.

The two or more firms now operate under the same business name and as one new company.

Evaluation: In my opinion, this can be a great way to remove competition by joining them, leaving the overall business stronger – Paddy Power and Betfair merged, so Paddy Power no longer compete with them. Paddy Power Betfair now has much more control over the overall market as one firm.

Takeover

They can be hostile (when the company being acquired doesn't want to be) or friendly.

It occurs when one business owns/buys 51% of the shares in another company.

The acquiring company absorbs the other company, which loses its identity after the acquisition and becomes part of the acquiring company.

Evaluation: In my opinion, this can be very costly – when Ryanair were looking to take over Aer Lingus, they had to bid above the market price for the shares to encourage Aer Lingus shareholders to accept the takeover bid. They can fail badly if unsuccessful e.g. Google lost billions from the Motorola takeover.

2009 Q5 (B)

Evaluate Debt and Equity Capital as sources of finance for business expansion. (20 marks)

MS: 15 Marks (3 @ 5 Marks (2+ 3); Evaluation 5 Marks (2+ 3)

Control

Debt: With a loan, the business will remain in full control of business decisions.

Equity: by selling shares, control will be diluted.

Cost

Debt: Fixed interest repayments plus installments of the sum borrowed must be paid back regularly, regardless of whether the business is performing well or not.

Equity: The business can choose when to pay dividends to shareholders.

Collateral

Debt: Security, usually an asset like the business' premises, will be required by the lender, which is a risk for the business that they might lose an asset if they can't pay back the loan on time.

Equity: No security is required.

Other: Risk (Level of gearing); Tax Implications (interest repayments are tax deductible, dividends aren't)

2013 Q6 (C)

Discuss the short-term and long-term implications of business expansion using the following headings:

Organisation Structure; Product mix; Profitability; Employment. (20 marks)

MS: 4 @ 5 marks (4+1)

Organisation structure

ST: A business may need a new organizational structure. There will be some duplication of resources e.g. after a merger there might be two CEO's so there may be redundancies.

LT: Change of structure. A functional structure may be replaced by a geographic structure to facilitate expansion into new geographic regions or a product structure to facilitate the increased range of products.

Product mix:

ST: As a business expands it will gain new products to sell e.g. Eircom took over Meteor and now have mobile phones as well as land line. Any products acquired during growth that do not fit the company's business model may be sold off.

LT: As a business grows, there may be further investment in R&D and product development in order to satisfy the wide range of market segments the business is selling into.

Profitability:

ST: Restructuring costs. Initially profits may fall as a result of the increased expenditure on assets such as machinery, buildings, IT, R&D, premises...

LT: The business may develop economies of scale such as bulk buying, increased market power, automation and elimination of duplication leading to efficiencies and greater profitability.

Employment:

ST: Redundancies and drop in staff morale (Fear of change, uncertainty over jobs) after initial expansion as it may result in rationalisation as the business attempts to remove wasteful duplication of roles.

LT: Bigger businesses could attract highly qualified personnel. Employees may become alienated and demotivated in a very large business, leading to inefficiencies.
